I kindly request you to recheck the meter reading and verify the billing records for any possible errors or faulty meter issues. Please arrange for a prompt inspection of the meter and, if necessary, an adjustment of the bill based on actual consumption.

I shall be grateful if this matter is resolved at the earliest to avoid inconvenience and unnecessary payment disputes."

The complainant stated in his complaint email dated 27.10.2025 that "Sir, it's been 18 days, still my complaint regarding my issue to resolve the excessive electricity bill has not been resolved. It's been a request to take personal issue and my issue on priority basis."

Submission of the Complainant

The complainant, upon reviewing his billing records, expressed concern that the electricity bill for August 2025 was substantially higher than his long-standing pattern of consumption. He stated that he had consistently paid his bills on time and had never previously encountered such a discrepancy. He emphasized that his usage habits remained unchanged and that no electrical load had been added.

Feeling that the bill did not reflect his actual consumption, he sought recalculation and verification from the electricity department. After experiencing delays in resolution, he felt compelled to escalate the matter and requested that his case receive urgent attention. Later, upon installation of a check meter and verification of readings, he concluded that the meter was functioning correctly. Satisfied with the clarity provided, he submitted a formal withdrawal of his complaint.

Submission of the Respondent

The respondent clarified that all relevant records related to the consumer's meter readings, consumption history, and testing documentation had been collected as per CGRF instructions. They reiterated that the meter in use was a standard digital unit and that the readings appeared consistent during official verification.

They acknowledged that the consumption recorded for August 2025 was higher than usual but maintained that there was no technical fault detected in the system. Further, the respondent complied with the Forum's direction to install a check meter and ensured that the testing process was conducted over an extended duration to establish accuracy.

After completion of the check-meter test, the respondent submitted a detailed report confirming normal meter performance. With the consumer subsequently withdrawing the complaint, the respondent requested closure of the case and assured future adherence to regulatory timelines and procedures.

Forum's Observation

The Forum observed that the complainant escalated the case due to the excess electricity bill issued for the month of August 2025 for Consumer No. Y3/2066, located at Keralapuram, opposite St. Mary Catholic Church. The complainant observed that the billed amount of ₹1,702/- was significantly higher than his usual monthly bill of approximately ₹900/-, despite no change in usage pattern or addition of electrical appliances.

At the time of hearing the consumer raised the issue of non receipt of reply submitted by the respondent and the installation of test meter was not in the knowledge of the complainant. Therefore the Forum directed the respondent to conduct the accuracy test for the existing meter for another week and submit the report on or before 27/11/2025 with proper acknowledgement by the complainant. As per the directive the accuracy test was done and the test reports were submitted. On detailed scrutiny of the report the existing meter and check meter readings to be reported as same, hence the existing meter seems to be working satisfactorily. In the mean time the complainant also was satisfied and appreciated the assistance provided by the respondent in addressing his concern and accordingly submitted a email dated 27/11/2025 to withdraw his complainant.

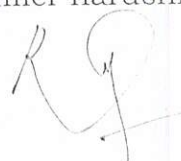

Hence the Forum decided to close the case as withdrawn.

Hence,
